VIENNA OPTICIAN CO.

SUBURBAN GOSSIP.

Vienna.
The good people of Washington know but little, it appears, of the surrounding villages, the small stars dotted about the great central light. My effort, therefore o introduce these neighbors to each other, to unite them, at least in sympathy, as a loving family, may be deemed commendable, while pleasure and profit seem promised by the desired result.

This bright morning of June I present another of the young ones to the general mother.

Vienna is a pretty, name, but of foreign origin. Something outle as revisial and Nienna is a pretty name, but of foreign origin. Something quite as musical, and more appropriate, might have been selected from Indian nomenclature of from our own expressive English.

The village is regularly laid out, on a map, which I have seen, though no such plan is yet discoverable up these pleasant tills and down these quiet valleys. It is, indeed, a straggler. At long intervals, by the side of its railroad, appears a small bouse, with large garden; at longer intervals, either side of its dusty turnpike way, another, environed with like liberality; then, promiscuously still, houses and barns, as if all had been built by contract at one time, tossed up into the air and, alighting, settled each according to its chance.

Situated on the Washington, Ohio and Western railroad, near the center of Fairfax county, it is about fifteen miles westward from this city, with which two trains each way per day connect it. To Fairfax Court House, the county seat, five miles distant, a stage runs in a leisurely manner twice a day. The Western Union telegraph allows its wishes to be transmitted to all the world; the slower, but more comprehensive, postal route offers its opportunities, and Adam Express Company will convey miscellaneous articles, light or ponderous.

Vienna is the center of a fine dairy region, convey miscellaneous articles, light or ponderous.

Vienna is the center of a fine dairy region, inhabited almost entirely by northern farmers, the greater part of whom are engaged in supplying the city with milk. Under charge of Capt. Van Slyck, 400 gallons per day go to Washington by rail, and Pearson Brothers carry thither by wagon, in the same space of time, 150 gallons. The average price paid the farmer at his door in summer, 13 cents per gallon; in winter, 18.

A planing mill, grist mill, saw mill, and two lim kilns are within the village, but none of them just now in operation. Two stores of general merchandise are conducted, respectively, by A. Freeman, who is also postmaster, and J. B. Bowman. A bakery and confectionery, presided over by Charles Blatchley, tempts with excellent bread, cakes, and sweets, but among the latter—alack and alas for the fair ladies—no ice cream! How can they endure even the moderate summer of Vicina, how live without continual lamentation, deprived of this dear delicacy?

dear delicacy?

Three joily and vigorous men make music with hammer and anvil, and discharge the quickest, liveliest, most sensible sort of fireworks; their names, George M. Cannon—good for a noisy trade—Thomas Kendrick, and Stephen Lee. Music of another kind is produced by the cornet band under the able leadership of W. H. Bowman, delicious strains frequently invited by picnic parties, dances, and tournaments.

B. F. Clayberger is telegraph operator, agent, and notary public; if anything else, whythe is able to be, possessing intelligence and energy quite unusual. The only village physician, Vienna his home and center, his circumference I don't know how far, but many miles, is Dr. R. D. Leith, a young gentleman, highly intellectual, and very smiling and happy, though his region is proverbial for healthfulness.

Four government clerks here wake early o' mornings, hurry off by rattling cars to their dignities of the departments, and return home to see the sun set. The pretitest and most numerously attended church.

tiest and most numerously attended church, Presbyterian, Rev. Frank Page, stands among trees on a hill top. Methodist ser-vice is held twice a month in the public school house, without a pastor at present. A Baptist Church, Rev. James Scott, reschool house, without a pastor at present. A Baptist Church, Rev. James Scott, receives the colored congregation, and to this society is attached a colored school, Miss Sarah Joues, teacher, for both sexes.

The Good Templars are here. Their lodge has many lady and children members. Prohibition of liquor is the law of the district. Alyceum flourishes, and has a library of 150 volumes. Winter lectures are delivered under its auspices, and Frederick Douglass, Dr. Merrill, Mrs. Mason, and Mr. Foster, all of Washington, have favored the society with wisdom and wit. The public school building is picturesquely placed on the summit of the most commanding hill, but, I regret to say, by no means deserves its prominence—being little better than a ruin. Total neglect, or indifference, marks it. Tumbling doors, broken windows, dilapidated walls within and without, inappropriateness, discomfort, ugliness, and dangerous influences must children receive from such surroundings! I pray ye, good people of Vienna, look to it; let your temple of knowledge be at least decent; if not, let it be destroyed.

Neatness generally characterizes the dwellings, and beauty three or four of them. Maj. O. E. Hine, a public-spirited ex-Union soldier, is doing much for the progress of the village, and no man could be more devoted to the interests of neighbors, no man more competent to aid their prosperity. "Prof." Frank T. Thurston, in charge of I am a coppersmith by trade, and the small particles of brass and copper from filing got into seres on my arms and poisoned my whole system. Mercury administered brought on rheumatism, and I became a helpiess invalid. I took two dozen bottles of Swift's Specific. My legs, arms, and hands are all right again. I use them without pain. My restoration is due to 8.8. S. FETER S. LOVE, Jan. 9, 1885, oted to the interests of neighbors, no manmore competent to aid their prosperity.

"Prof." Frank T. Thurston, in charge of the engineering and technical branch of the dictionary now being published by the Century company, New York, labors and rests in Vienna. In its close vicinity dwell two other distinguished persons, James Hunter, a learned Scotch gentleman, editor-in-chief of the recent supplement to Worcester's Unabridged Dictionary, who, also, was twelve years engaged as editor of the Royal Imperial Dictionary, published by the Blackies, Glasgow. Gen. McKee
Dunn, former judge advocate general, U.
S. A., is the second notable character. The state in which the general moves approaches kingly magnificence, and his arrival and departure at the station or from it to his fine country seat, the gorden glittering livery, invariably attract a crowd of villagers, all eyes and wonder.

I should suppose your service to Cleveland

I should suppose your service to Cleveland and the Democratic party and against Blaine and the Republican party would serve to keep you in your present position. You were a Union soldier, I believe, and this fact may operate negating you as I see that many old soldiers holding civil positions have been asked to "walk the plank." Your place may be wanted by some confederate soldier, who has allways been tsue to the principles of the Democratic party.

been true to the principles of the Democratic party.

Without the aid of Republicans like yourself Cleveland could not have been elected. Republicans like yourself have been the cause of turning many good and worthy men out of of fice, and some of them have been personal friends of raine, and to some of these friends their diamisal has been a great hardship. If you should happen to lose your place you doubtless can sympathize. I don't find any fault for turning Republicans out of office.

I did not expect anything else when Cleveland was elected. On personal grounds I would be pleased to see you hold your place, but I can't say that I adm't gour course politically. You have held office under a Republican administration for many years, and if you should now be dismissed you can very properly say that 'you have helped to kill the goose that laid the golden egg." Very truly yours.

Why He Was Appointed. Secretary Manning, in explaining the ap-iniment of Gen. Krzyzanowski as inspecto customs of New York, says: "I did not inor casons or acceptance of the control of the man spelitics at all. His reappointment was asked by a large number of good clizens on account of his excellent was record. Another reason unged was that he was in a very necessitous condition. The charges that he was an active Republican were not made until after his reappointment, but then what narm could be do us?"
